

DEFINITIONS

Common Border - Where public property and private property meet.

Community Dock - A dock owned by two or more individuals/family units having legal access to the facility.

Family Unit - A family living in the same house.

Gangwalk - The walkway between the shoreline and floating structure.

Gangwalk Approach - A structure (normally a boardwalk or steps) providing access onto the gangwalk. One end may be attached to the gangwalk anchor post or gangwalk. The other end rests on the ground.

Legal Access - Shared interest in an adjacent private club, property ownership in an adjacent subdivision/community with established community access corridors, or adjacent private property ownership. In each case, documents showing legal property ownership must be submitted prior to obtaining a shoreline permit/license.

Licensed Items - Land based facilities including, but not limited to, utility right-of-ways and improved walkways.

Permitted Items - Floating facilities, vegetative modification, and erosion control.

Private Individual Floating Facility - A mooring buoy, swim float, or dock owned by one individual/family unit.

Reissuance - To subsequently renew and extend a permit to the permittee upon expiration of the permit.

Reassignment - To issue a new permit to a new owner for previously permitted items upon sale or transfer of the adjoining private property.

Stationary Section/Walkway - The part of a floating facility's gangwalk which is supported by fixed pilings or poles below 330'm.s.l. and which is not free floating.

Structure - Any construction on public land. Includes boat docks, ramps, improved walkways, light or power poles, roadways, retaining walls, riprap, etc.

Substantial Structure - As related to underbrushing for fire protection, a building on a permanent foundation with a value in excess of $500. Example: A frame storage building with a concrete floor. Portable storage buildings, landscaping features, satellite dishes, picnic tables etc. are not considered substantial structures.
